

Publish with APA

This half-day class introduces to the nuts and bolts of the publication process at the American Psychological Association, with the Editor-in-Chief of APA Journal of Psychotherapy Integration. The lifeline of a manuscript is presented, criteria for publication at APA, information about the review process (from the author and reviewer perspectives), and advice for revisions. While the half-day presentation is focused on research in APA journals, a brief part is dedicated to book projects with the APA. Specifics for quantitative and qualitative research in psychology, clinical psychology and psychotherapy are described.

Learning objectives:

- Get to know the publication process at APA
- Learn about the review process, what to expect, and what to avoid
- Strengthen the revision process of a manuscript

This class is designed for early career researchers, PhD students, MDs who are interested to publish in an APA journal. The class will be taught in English.
